Quick Tips: Get a Government Job

BASIC TIPS:

- Remember that applying for a government job is different than applying for a job in the private sector.

- To find government jobs, visit www.USAJOBS.gov.

- All federal vacancies MUST be listed on the www.USAJOBS.gov website which "levels the playing field" for candidates and makes your government job search more streamlined.

- The application process for a government job is often different in the sense that it requires you to self-assess your skills and how they satisfy a particular position's requirements.

- Take advantage of the search tools on www.USAJOBS.gov.

- You can filter your search on the website by location, job title, salary level, GS level, and more. This will help you narrow down your search to find opportunities that will likely best suit your needs.
